

TOSHIBA

COMPANY PROFILE

A world leader in high technology, TOSHIBA is an integrated manufacturer of electrical and electronic products spanning information & communications equipment and systems, electronic components, power systems, and consumer products.

The Company, founded as Tanaka Engineering Works in July 1875 by Hisashige Tanaka, became Toshiba Corporation in 1978. As the 6th largest global electronics manufacturer, Toshiba has 321 subsidiaries and affiliates worldwide and employs more than 190,000 people.

TOSHIBA AMERICA INFORMATION SYSTEMS, INC., a part of the Toshiba America Group of Companies, was established in 1981 and is headquartered in Irvine, California and maintains sales offices nationwide and in South America.

A world-leading vendor of mobile computing and communication solutions for business customers, TOSHIBA AMERICA INFORMATION SYSTEMS, INC. also provides business solutions through storage subsystems products and services, voice-mail systems, digital business telephone systems, interactive voice-response systems, network systems, digital security systems, and digital cameras.

A Quick Glance at Toshiba America Information Systems

Corporate Type	Number of Employees	Year Founded
Public –Traded in Asian/European markets	1200	1981

Ticker Symbol	Primary Products	Work Environment
TES	Mobile computing and information products	Business Casual